

STELLAR JOCKEYS AUGUST NEWSLETTER

Welcome to the Stellar Jockeys newsletter for August. This month focuses on the contributions of our community over the summer.

Take our 2020 Summer Survey

A lot of newcomers have joined the community recently, so we're holding another survey. This time around it's more focused on your habits and has more open responses than before. It's completely optional, but by filling it out you will help us better understand who we are talking to. The survey will run into the second week of September, and like the others we'll put up some insights again in our #survey-results Discord channel.

Modding Mayhem

We are completely bowled over by the recent modding achievements of community members Eugenius and Pap Smear.

Building on the work of other community modders, Eugenius has not only successfully reverse-engineered the addition of custom sprites into Brigador in the space of a week, but has also documented their "Brigador Renaissance" journey in our #maps-and-modding channel. Currently the end result looks like this, which anyone can do.

Meanwhile, Pap Smear has done something fancy to the Brigador engine: lua scripting (note: Pap is able to do this because they have special access to a fork of the engine's codebase). Among many other things, this means they're able to draw new UI elements, create basic enemy AI in-fighting, and spawn vehicles in during runtime. If none of that makes sense, Pap Smear has posted some handy videos showing it all off.

Tabletop Campaigning with Commander

Community moderator Commander has started a Necromunda campaign for the Discord server via the #p-and-p_tabletop channel. All you need to take part is a copy of Tabletop Simulator, while a free Yaktribe account will provide you with the NCE rulebook and a way to track your gang. If you're interested in joining in (latecomers get bonuses!), then check out the pinned messages in the #p-and-p_tabletop Discord channel.

Currently, all matchups are a free-for-all until September 7 so that folk can try things out, get familiar with the rules as well as figure out timeslots for fights.

Fan Art And Then Some...

Proliferation of deepfake technology will probably have some useful applications in the future. Until then, Bit Bitter decided to make several Brigador pilots singalong to Baka Mitai...

Community member ceriseCisilipp made a short comic envisaging a deep discussion between a Rat King and a Varlet...

...Lastly, resident Superfan From Volta Juntti has left us with another gem, titled "Feels From Volta".

Thank you to everyone who takes the time and energy into making these things! As always, many more contributions that couldn't fit into the space of this newsletter can be found on the Discord's #becks_best channel.

Next Month

In September's newsletter we'll check out the results of the survey, as well as check in on what our exemplary community members have created.
