

STELLAR JOCKEYS MAY NEWSLETTER

Welcome to the Stellar Jockeys newsletter for May 2022. This past month there have been a few dev streams that you might not have known about.

Benjamin, Stellar Jockeys

Spinning Back Up Devstreams

Our designer Hugh recently streamed over on his Twitch channel. At the start of his most recent VOD, which we've uploaded to YouTube above with time stamps, you can hear the opening prologue of Brad Buckmaster's upcoming tie-in audiobook for Brigador Killers. Hugh then goes on to talk about his own background that informs the lore of the Brigador universe. Over the course of the four hour stream, Hugh also shows off a shooting range from one of the BK test builds, and even teases a couple of music tracks from Makeup And Vanity Set's BK album that you won't have heard before. Hugh doesn't have a strict schedule but does intend to do more streams as development progresses, so if you are actively on Twitch, click the button below and press all the usual buttons to be notified.

Follow Hugh's Twitch Channel

Meanwhile since the end of March our artist Jack has been running several devstreams on Twitch covering the art process of some of the units you've seen images of in recent newsletters. Currently there's no fixed schedule, though they typically happen around 13:30 Central Time (19:30 UK Time) on weekdays. Recently, he's been building out vehicles for the Faber faction, which is a security group active on Mar Nosso. Below on the left is the Faber vehicles in their currently untextured 3D state, while on the right is what they look like after being exported as a sprite.

Follow Jack's Twitch Channel

If you lurk on our Discord server, we added a special Dev Stream role that you can add to your server profile by entering the command `~joindevstream` as its own line in chat. The bot will add this role to your profile and you will get a ping whenever new streams are going live. VODs of previous streams will typically remain up for about 30 days.

Community Spotlight

Speaking of Discord community events, every Friday and Saturday our server runs movie and game nights. Moderator SCOREGOBLIN can frequently be found posting details on the next event in our #community-announcements channel and the current month's schedule is always pinned. Anyway, onto this month's submissions. First up it's Flyingdebris with a dedication to Faber - one of the factions you'll be up against in Brigador Killers...

...Juntti brought an Osberger-themed homage to Battletech artist John Gammon...

...and Mintea made some delightful pixel art versions of Brigador's faction logos.

As usual, this is only a handful of what can be seen in #becks-best. Join our Discord server and you can browse a selection of many other community contributions from the past month.

Join Our Discord Server

Next Month

Our current milestone is wrapping up and for our next one we'll be cleaning up some tech debt. However, we also expect to have some feedback about our progress on Brigador Killers.

Stellar Jockeys
2711 N Albany Ave #1
Chicago, IL 60647
United States

Newsletter Archive

Privacy Policy

You received this email because you signed up on our website or made a purchase from us.

Unsubscribe

