

STELLAR JOCKEYS MARCH NEWSLETTER

Welcome back to your monthly Stellar Jockeys newsletter for March 2023. This month we have some new footage of a recent Brigador Killers test build.

Check Out This New BK Test Footage

This past month we ended up working on both the aiming and animation systems for Brigador Killers. Please enjoy the usual in-depth writeup over on Steam.

Final Call To Take Our Hardware Survey

The Stellar Jockeys 2023 Community Hardware Survey is still live and taking responses for a few more hours. Participation in the survey is anonymous but any information gathered will be incredibly helpful to us as it tells us what benchmark to aim for with our games.

Take Survey

This survey will close later today (March 31st, 2023), after which the usual graphs will be posted in our #survey-results channel on our Discord.

Community Spotlight: Special Edition

We put together a special, extra-long community shout-out post for the recent Steam Spring Sale. It features over a dozen of the contributors to #becks_best over the years, all of whom kindly gave us their permission to feature a selection of their work. Click the button below to read.

Brigador: Community Shout-Out Edition

As for the past month, the usual suspects have made an appearance. Clade Ligma Scout drew an illustration of a Spacer Cantor...

...Top Dingus drew a comic featuring everyone's(?) favorite(?) Brigador pilot (click to enlarge)...

...Juntti was inspired by Pizza Tower's recent success to draw "Normano vs. Zed"...

...and Flyingdebris committed a different sort of crime against humanity.

Did you know the #becks_best channel opened on our Discord server all the way back in 2018? There's a lot of stuff to browse in there.

Next Month

We originally intended to write about lua scripting for this month. Hopefully we can cover it in April's newsletter instead.
