

STELLAR JOCKEYS APRIL NEWSLETTER

Welcome back to your monthly Stellar Jockeys newsletter for April 2023. For this month's Brigador Killers update we decided to write several hundred words about a GIF.

Brigador Killers: What Goes On In A GIF?

Unlike other game developers that simply post GIFs online, we decided to include a detailed explanation about 44 looping frames of animation for this month's Brigador Killers development post.

Art Dev Stream VODs Available

This past week our lead artist Jack streamed for several hours from his Twitch channel. If you weren't able to catch the streams live, they're archived permanently in the videos section.

Bonus: Studio Origin Story Post

Long-time readers might know most of these details already, but if you are new to our newsletter - welcome! Please enjoy a short trip down memory lane that details some of the beginnings of Stellar Jockeys...

Hardware Survey Results Are In

(SJ) What is your computer's primary display resolution?

The Stellar Jockeys 2023 Community Hardware Survey that took place last month are available to read in the #survey-results channel of our discord server. We have also included data from Steam to compare and contrast our own survey results. Enjoy.

Community Spotlight

There's been more of a tabletop theme this past month. For instance, King Slav did an incredible paintjob of their printed Touro...

...while themerchantofbenis continues to amaze us like with their printed

Arlo.

Meanwhile, Dapper Platypus has provided a handy graph for how to quickly identify good posts on the server...

...Lowkek Ops was seemingly inspired by Juntti's Pizza Tower post from last month...

...and Flyingdebris was inspired to create their own spin on the famous "We're Just Normal Men" clip.

Unfortunately #becks_best was very busy the past month so we can only include a handful of posts. Plenty more can be seen over on our discord server.
