● v0.4 The Fabricator Build is LIVE

Brigador Killers has been updated recently on Itch.io to version 0.4 The Fabricator Build. This version of the game adds to the garage aspects, meaning you can now find vehicle parts in missions and construct vehicles with them, as well as several other additions like new missions and a merchant to spend your hard-earned credits on. More details along with installation instructions are in the post.

BK OST - Where's the Beef

March's Makeup and Vanity Set track from the Brigador Killers OST is "Where's the Beef", which is the song that plays during the Dromon sniper fight after you make your way through the Undercity or Villa mission.

BK Dev: "Randomness" in level design

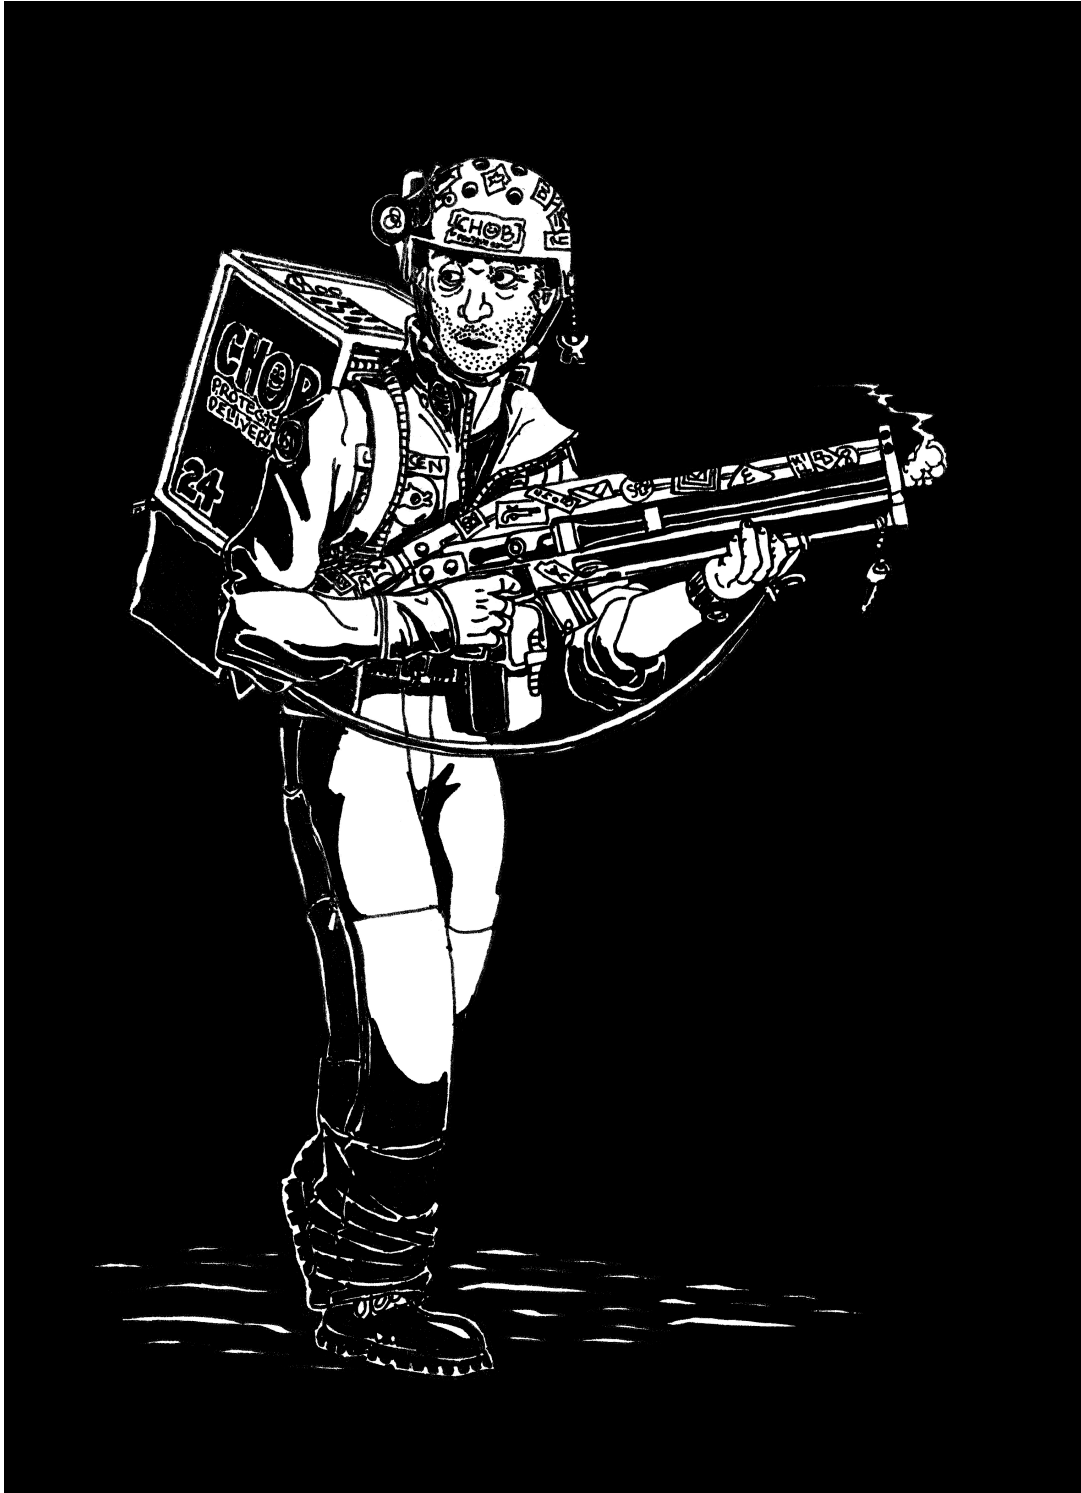

This month's game development post returns to the topic of level design in Brigador Killers and goes into the details of how we create dynamic-feeling levels with multiple layers of static features. We hope you enjoy the read.

Community Spotlight

It seems the community was preoccupied with playing our next game this month. Rifle Infantry gave their take on a Chobber in #design_bureau...

...and Flyingdebris very much enjoyed the early temp version of the Mongoose in the Fabricator Build and its curious ability to mount a large crate on its back.

The #becks_best hall of fame channel is now almost eight years old and you can browse many works like these in our server.

Next Month

April means more work and possibly more updates as we head towards the Steam Next Fest in June. We're excited and we hope you are too.
